

Best regards,
Denis Boykov
Chief Executive Officer
Moscow Urban Forum

I hope that we will continue our professional communication on future city management in the framework of the Moscow Urban Forum.

The business programme of this edition gathered together more than 7,000 participants, among them federal and city authorities, architects, business leaders, researchers, representatives of city administrations, urban activists, urbanists, startups and urban residents. In MUF 2018 participated 125 foreign speakers and representatives of international official delegations from more than 35 countries, and 291 Russian speakers. 87 events of the business programme - plenary sessions, panel discussions, presentations and master classes - were full of thought-provoking and idea-driven discussions of the most urgent issues on the development of future megacities.

Your professional background, expert opinion, and competence in the field of urban development contributed a lot to making this Forum a successful and significant event. Thank you again for being an important part of the Moscow Urban Forum.

Moscow Urban Forum 2018 under the title "Megacity of the Future. New Space for Living" has managed to record the results achieved by major megacities, to consider their effects, to understand the nature of a modern metropolis that has experienced a wave of transformations and what determines its viability. Competition among leading megacities is shifting to the sphere of the striving for substance and meaningfulness in the life of citizens, and their involvement in what is happening. The Moscow Urban Forum 2018 is intended to discuss and define this new space for life.

On behalf of the Moscow City Government, I would like to thank you for your participation in the business programme of the Moscow Urban Forum 2018 that was held on July 17-18, 2018 in Zaryadye Park, Moscow.
